61ST ESTABLISHMENT DAY CELEBRATED AT DLW, VARANASI

Diesel Locomotive Works (DLW) celebrated its 61st Foundation Day of Technical Training Center on February 6, 2020. The colourful cultural program presented by the trainees and trainers. The Chief Guest SK Kashyap marked the concluding ceremony with the distribution of prizes. Expressing views on the occasion, Kashyap said that before the es-establishment of DLW, this technical institute was inaugurated on February 2, 1959, by the then Governor VV Giri. He said that today it is the best technical training institute of Indian Railways. State-of-the-art technical facilities are available for the training of trainees, through which the trainees trained from here are performing an important role in the service of the country and the railways. During the ceremony, he honoured the trainees by giving awards for outstanding performance in training, sports and other activities. A large number of departmental heads, officers, staff council members, trainers, staff and trainees were present on the occasion.
